One of Venjix's main attack bots, Lightning Bot is loyal to his master and follows direct orders, never thinking for himself. His electrified Lightning Blast attack can take down the mightiest of Zords, and though his ungrown size is of a very tall human, he packs a serious punch. Instead of a left hand, he has a clamp, which enables him a pincer-like grapple. Lightning Bot understands commands in any language, but he cannot speak other than in a low roar of a generator.

Lightning Blast (Targeting): +d6, Range 80 ft. (1 Electric Damage)

Lightning Bot turns a gear on his chest to generate a Lightning Blast that comes out of his pincer clamp.

Thunderbolt (Targeting): +d6, Range 30 ft. (1 Electric Damage to Multiple (3) Targets in a 30 ft. cone)

Lightning Bot turns a gear on his chest to generate a Thunderbolt that strikes out from his head and hits all creatures within a 30 foot cone. This attack may not be used in subsequent turns.

Pincer Grip (Might): +d4, Reach (1 Blunt Damage or Grapple)

The clamp on Lightning Bot's left arm squeezes any opponent caught in his grasp. On a successful Attack Test, it deals 1 Blunt Damage or will Grapple the Target. Lightning Bot automatically hits any Grappled creatures with his Pincer Grip on subsequent turns, dealing 1 Blunt Damage each time until the creature escapes the Grapple.

Technopathy (Standard): By turning the gear on his chest, Lightning Bot emanates a field of electricity which can control any machines or other technology within 60 feet..

HANGUPS:

Machine Made: Lightning Bot is made from metal with working machinery as parts. As a result, he is susceptible to rust and must choose between a Move or Standard action if he is doused or submerged in at least 2 cubic feet of water.
